PIMPLES ON HAND

Could Not Use Hand, Slept But Little, Cuticura Heals.

"My trouble started with small pimples on one of my fingers which soon spread and covered my left hand. The pimples were hard and red, and itched and burned. The itching was so severe that I could not use my hand and I was unable to sleep. I tried many remedies but nothing helped. I then used Cuticura and in six weeks I was cured. I can now use my hand and sleep peacefully. I am very grateful to Cuticura for its cure."—Mrs. J. H. Long, 1321 Main street, Conneltsville, Pa.

Candidate for Assembly

JOSEPH B. HENDERSON.
To the Men and Women Voters of Fayette county.

We want to call your attention to the candidacy of Joseph B. Henderson, of Connellsville, for the office of House of Representatives of the Second Legislative District.

J. B. Henderson was born in Armstrong county, this state, in 1859. The family moved to Ohio in 1863 and Mr. Henderson lived there until 1887 when he came to Fayette county and settled at Vanderhill, where for a period of over thirty-five years he worked for the W. J. Hays Company as a house painter and superintendent. In 1886 he married Miss Cora Butts, daughter of the late Joseph Butts, of Franklin township; of their two children, Joseph Hugh is a teacher of history in the Dunbar Township High School, and their daughter, Mary C., is a student of Allegheny College, Meadville. In 1920 he and his family moved to Connellsville where they now reside.

During the World War J. B. Henderson gave practically all his time to the service of his country. In all the Liberty Loan and Red Cross drives he was a leader and in some of them he was chairman of the Vanderhill district.

As a churchman, J. B. Henderson has had an unusual record. For a period of thirty consecutive years he served as superintendent of the Sabbath school of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Vanderhill. Since moving to Connellsville he has been a teacher of a boys' class in the Methodist Episcopal Church there.

Legislature, he will take no middle ground on all questions that affect the home or the church and he can be counted on to stand four-square on all such questions. At the next meeting of the Legislature, there will be a determined effort made by the liquor interests to pass legislation which will render inoperative the Eighteenth Amendment.

In every county of the state the liquor interests have candidates for the Legislature. So it behooves every good citizen, whether man or woman, to vote for men like J. B. Henderson, who stand squarely for law enforcement and good legislation.

CHANGE OF LIFE
WOMAN'S TRIAL

Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is of Great Help at This Period

Metropolis, Illinois.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a month and it is all it claims to be and has benefited me wonderfully. I had been sick for eight months with a trouble which confined me to my bed and was only home a few days. I had been advised by a friend, Mrs. Smith, to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I was so much benefited by the use of these medicines that I was able to be up and about in two weeks. I was at the Change of Life when I began taking the medicines and I passed over that time without any trouble. Now I am hale and hearty, do all my household washing, ironing, scrubbing, and cooking, all there is to do about a house, and can walk two or three miles without getting too tired. I know several of my neighbors who have been helped by your medicines."—Mrs. EMMA GULLEY, 705 E. 7th St., Metropolis, Illinois.

Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Nervousness, irritability, heat flashes, headache and dizziness, are relieved by this splendid medicine.

Mothers' Day Will Be Observed Tomorrow in Churches of the City

Special Sermons and Appropriate Music Arranged for Occasion.

CARS FOR OLDER FOLKS

Mother's Day will be observed tomorrow in the churches of the city. Sermons and music will direct attention to the occasion. Transportation to and from services is being arranged for a number of instances for the older persons and those unable to walk to and from churches.

Following are the events of the day in Conneltsville and nearby localities:

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN—Rev. J. Scott, minister. Bible school at 9:45; preaching at 10:30. Mother's Day will be honored by special sermons both morning and evening. In the morning the subject is "What God Made a Woman to Be." As humanity becomes more complicated, women become more involved in anxiety which the women of the past generation knew nothing about. What God created man he had one purpose in view. When he made woman he had another in view, for he did not duplicate man. What was God's plan for woman? We find out by turning back and considering God's thought when he made woman. It will be very interesting to listen to a recital of the things God meant woman to be. A woman once said she "was thankful there are some thoroughly fine Christian girls left for the boys are going to do what the girls want them to do." In the evening the subject is "Whatever He Said Take Your Part." Many have no reason why this should be done. The best dressed women are the women dressed for woman's service. You are welcome.

CHRISTIAN—George Walker Buckner, pastor. Bible school at 9:30; Junior Endeavor at 10:00; church service at 10:30. Topic: "Don't Give Up." Galatians 2:20; leader, Jean Swartzweider. Senior and Junior Endeavor societies at 6:30; topic same for both societies. "How Can We Help Our Church and Get Help From It?" Psalm 127:1; song, "Lead Me On, O Lord." Intermediate leader, Edward Berger. Morning worship and sermon at 10:40; subject of sermon, "Honoring Motherhood." Owing to the great expense of flowers upon these special days, those who would attend the services of the church at Bible school or at the regular worship in honor of Mother's Day should feel free to wear a flower of appropriate hue other than the conventional carnation, or, in lieu of a flower, use white or pink ribbon. Evening service at 7:30; subject of sermon, "Real Salvation of Society, City and State and Their True Saviors." This is a Christian citizenship address. What constitutes social salvation? Is it the attainment of social "position"? Is one saved when money is hoarded? Is Conneltsville saved? Can it be saved by politicians? Can it be saved?

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN—Sunday school at 9:45; morning service at 10:30. Topic: "The Women of the Bible." Songs will be for the occasion. Evening service at 7:30. Wednesday morning service at 7:45.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL—Dunbar, pastor. Sunday school at 9:45. Attendance is growing. There is both room and welcome for all. "Crabbing Bulwarks." "The Women of the Bible." Both morning and evening services will be held in observance of Mother's Day. Parents and all adults are invited to attend church on Mother's Day.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE—Dana, pastor. Church services and Sunday school at 9:45; subject of sermon, "Morals and Materialism." Wednesday evening meeting at 8:00. The reading room of the church is open week days from 9:00 to 10:00.

METHODIST PROTESTANT—West Conneltsville, J. E. Lamberton, minister. Sunday school at 9:45; church service at 10:30.

You Think the Church Is a Good Thing

You would not live in a community that would not support one. Be consistent. Go to Church MOTHER'S DAY. United Presbyterian Church. Hours: 11:00 A. M. and 7:45 P. M.

Mothers' Day CUT FLOWERS. Home, 1115 West Penn. Road. Mrs. J. B. Lamberton, florist. 1115 West Penn. Road, Conneltsville, Pa.

man's Guild on Wednesday evening. Girls' club on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL—Sun Junction and Fairview, J. A. Forgie, pastor. Mother's Day, Sun Junction, Sunday school at 10 A. M. Preaching at 11 A. M. and 8:00 P. M. Fairview—Combination service, Sunday school and public worship, 2:30 P. M. Jefferson School House, Union Sunday School at 10 A. M. "What Love, What Wisdom, Should Belong to Her Who Holds God Fashion an Immortal Soul!" Everybody welcome.

VANDERBILT CHRISTIAN—Jesse B. Porter, pastor. Bible school, 10:30; worship, 11 and 7:30; Christian Endeavor, 6:30. Sermon subjects: morning, "Mother and the Home"; evening, "Lord's Day Events." The morning service will be strictly a service in keeping with the spirit of Mother's Day. Mothers by all means should attend this service and hear the special message. Great song service in the evening, followed by a strong gospel sermon. All are welcome.

COVENANTER—Rev. Johnston makes the following announcement: "10, Sabbath school, 11, sermon, 'Prayer,' 2:30, Junior Mission Band, 4:45, C. Y. P. U., 'Why Put Christ in the Constitution?' Leader, Lester Jaynes. 7:30, evening service, 7:30, Wednesday evening, 'The Macedonian Call,' Mrs. J. M. Johnston, leader."

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL—Rev. Bennett W. Hutchinson, Auditorium of Cameron School Building at 11 and 7:30. Mother's Day will be observed both morning and evening. Morning sermon on mother—"Dear Children Rise Up and Call Me Blessed." Offering for the Hamilton Home for the Aged. Sunday school at 10:45. Contest on. Come on time. The two men's classes meet at the Y. M. C. A. The Epworth League and Junior League both meet at 6:30 P. M. At 7:30 P. M. the pastor will resume the "Question Box." Questions for answer: How do you reconcile the theory of evolution with the orthodox doctrine of the fall of man? Is it true that under the 18th Amendment there is almost as much liquor consumed as before? Explain the "second death." Can you expect churches to win souls while there are so many worldly in constant pleasure loving, dishonest members in the churches? Is it wrong for professed Christians to go riding in automobiles on Sunday merely for pleasure? What is the matter with the young people of our churches?

TRINITY LUTHERAN—Fairview avenue, William H. Hetrick, pastor. Sunday school, 10; worship, 11, sermon, "Mother and the Children"; Luther League, 7; subject, "How Can We Help Our Church and Get Help From It?" leaders, Bertha Carlson and Eleanor Cunningham; evening worship, 7:45, sermon, "Everything Subject Unto Man."

FIRST BAPTIST—E. H. Stevens, minister. Bible school at 9:45. Morning worship 10:00; sermon subject, "The Home Builders." All aged persons who want to attend church can do so if they will get into automobiles which will be provided. The service is for mothers. B. Y. P. U. 8:30; leader, Miss Viola Montgomery. Evening worship 7:30. The old songs will be sung as called for. Tell what your favorite is and you'll hear it. Sermon on "Why I Believe in Mothers and Folk."

TRINITY REFORMED—J. H. Donnan, pastor. Sunday school 9:45 A. M. Worship 11 A. M. and 7:45 P. M. Subject of morning sermon: "Nation Builders"—a sermon in keeping with Mother's Day.

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN—Crawford avenue, West Side, J. A. Bultenmyer, pastor. Preaching services at 10:45 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday school at 9:45 A. M. Revival services will continue all through next week. The Sunday school and preaching service will be in keeping with Mother's Day. To all of these services you are welcome.

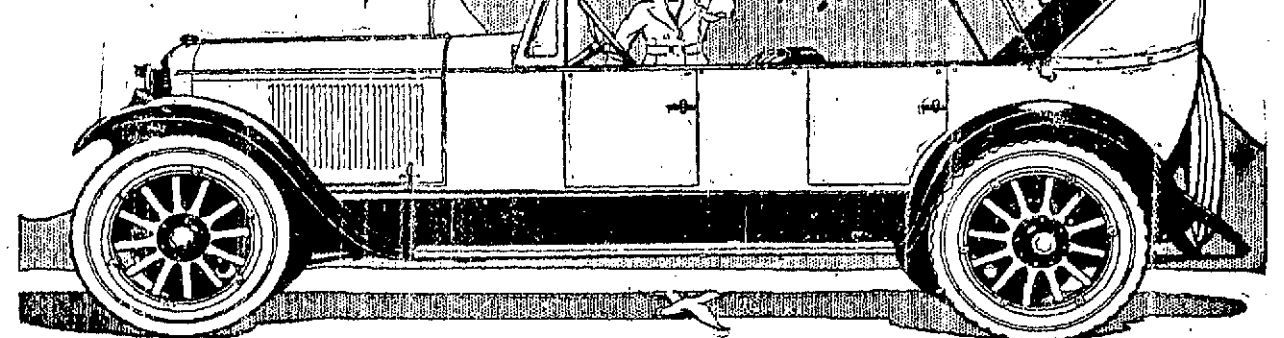

EVANGELICAL—South Conneltsville, Clowell E. Miller, pastor. Sunday school on Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock; public worship with services in keeping with the celebration of "Mother's Day" at 10:30. The fathers and the mothers of the community are especially invited to attend this service. Y. P. U. on Sunday evening at 8:45; evening worship at 7:45; Bible Study Class on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Prayer services on Wednesday evening at 7:45. The Y. P. U. business meeting will be held at the church on Friday evening at 7:45, and the social meeting will be held in the parlors following the business session.

TRINITY EPISCOPAL—Parish house Fairview avenue and Prospect street, Frederic C. Walheim, pastor. Fourth Sunday after Easter. Divine service in the morning at 11 o'clock. Church school at 10 o'clock. Women's Guild on Wednesday evening. Girls' club on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Master of the Highway Will Make Your Other Motoring Experiences Seem Tame

As the 6-66 speeds away you lose all sense of road contact. For that, you can thank six mighty cylinders that develop 70 horsepower and function with the ease and smoothness of a giant turbine.

The 6-66 offers the fullest degree of motoring comfort because it was designed along strictly modern lines with ample margins of strength and power.

You can best appreciate it by making direct comparisons with cars that cost from $4,000 to $5,000. In active demonstration on the road or quietly parked among the nation's best, the 6-66 will convince you that it belongs to no price field—acknowledges no competition on a basis of dollar-for-dollar value.

That is why it is known as the undisputed Master of the Highway.

That is why the Paige Daytona Model 6-66 holds every stock chassis speedway record from 5 to 100 miles.

And that is why it is the soundest and safest of all fine car investments at the greatly reduced price.

Sure Cure for Baldness

Eat vitamins and keep your hair fall out. That vitamins are a preventive of baldness is a deduction that may be drawn from the latest scientific development of the chemistry of diet. Those elusive elements in food known as vitamins, found in fresh vegetables which are not too thoroughly cooked, are found to occupy a most important position in sustaining life.

Four vegetables are known to be especially strong in furnishing vitamins. These are cabbage, lettuce, asparagus and tomatoes. Lettuce, being procurable the year around in city markets, furnishes the most constant supply among the vegetables, while oranges and some of the other fruits also help out.

Lettuce, therefore, from a health standpoint, occupies a very important place. It can be eaten almost daily in some form of salad without palliating upon the appetite. Cabbage, of course, could not. Tomatoes and asparagus likewise would become intolerable if furnished day after day. Lettuce, however, is an article of steady diet in many families and should enter into the dietary of men.

The connection of vitamins with baldness came about through a recent meeting of the American Chemical Society in Chicago. Some of the investigators of the society had been experimenting upon vitamins, guinea pigs being the subjects. Guinea pigs were fed on a vitamin diet in which lettuce formed a large part. Other guinea pigs were deprived of a vitamin diet. The vitamin-fed guinea pigs grew fat and healthy and glossy-coated. Those deprived of vitamins

Guy W. Brown for State SENATE

"THE ROAD'S CLEAR"

(Political Advertisement)

To All Republican Voters:

Next Tuesday, May 16th, is the day on which the REPUBLICAN VOTERS of Fayette County will determine their nominee for the STATE SENATE. I wish to express my appreciation of the efforts and work of my friends in all parts of the county. From every district, reports assure the interest and the purpose of the voters.

In my announcement, I stated to the voters of Fayette County that I would make known my views on public questions of interest and this I have done by means of the newspapers, public addresses, through my friends and by personal conversations.

To meet all the voters of Fayette County is an impossibility but I feel a bond of common fellowship with you, knowing your interests and needs. If nominated for the STATE SENATE, you have my assurance that in every matter brought to my attention, which involves your welfare, I shall carefully, courageously and in the spirit of loyalty, give it my personal consideration and attention.

Very truly yours,

Guy W. Brown

Season's Final Boxing Show on Tuesday Evening

There have been numerous attractions for Connelville people in the past year, including a circus and the opening of the baseball season of the Connelville Independents, but standing out in front with the other headliners is the boxing show, arranged for Tuesday evening, May 16, at Statish Hall, West Side under the auspices of the Connelville Athletic Club, which is staging its second year.

The sport loving public is as much interested in seeing Billy Carter, the local colored boy, meet Charlie Dunn, the Ambidge Mayo king, as they are in seeing the former Ambidge baseball infield hold up the Coker laurels at Payette Field.

The Dunn-Carter encounter promises to be even more successful than the Dempsey-Romano fight, which would have been the main attraction. The show is also the final one of the season, which makes it more of a drawing card. It will be the final opportunity in several months for Connelville fans to see the boys mix it in the roped arena.

Boxing is slowly gaining here and the first show by the local club, held about a month ago, was so perfectly conducted that it made a lasting impression. The best order is maintained and for that reason spectators as a whole enjoy the fights more thoroughly.

The grand final scrap between Young Walligan of Pittsburgh and Eddie Holland of McKeesport is described as being a "battering" of a match, each boy being a hustler.

The "dark horse" of Trotter is announced as Kid Hanlon, a youth declared to be possessed of "the goods." He will meet Doty Turner of Uniontown in a six round frame.

Maranville's Long Hitting Streak Ends

By Associated Press
PITTSBURGH, May 12.—Pittsburgh won from Boston Friday by a score of 1-0, ending Watson's long hitting streak in the fifth inning. Traynor's three-bagger came with the bases filled. Carlson was hit hard in the fourth inning when the visitors scored all their runs in five hits.

Maranville went hitless after securing a hit in 18 straight games. Yellowhorns pitched the last five innings and held Boston scoreless.

The Pirates continued in the tie for second place, St. Louis defeating the Giants.

All Wool

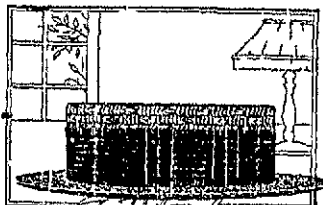

By Wright-Metzler Co.
The expression "All Wool" carries the same significance to the average clothing buyer as the guarantee 18 karat bears to the jewelry purchaser, and as "The Blue Sky Law" to the prospective buyer of stock.
The fact that the "All Wool" guarantee protects him from all fraud in the clothing line, but the expression "All Wool" means very little in some stores, as far as the quality of material goes.
The percentage of wool in a garment is not nearly as important as the percentage of PURE OR VIRGIN WOOL. The fabric of which an article is made may be all wool, strictly and honestly speaking, and yet not be worth the price with which it is put on the market. It may be all wool and yet contain a great deal of cheap, and even cheap and shabby as the points of origin.
Real wool is used to a great extent in the manufacture of men's clothing. Old clothing and rags are made into the better and better.

off, and the cloth is graded according to color and quality. These rags are beaten by machinery to free them of dust, and later are fed to revolving cylinders armed with teeth which tear the cloth and reduce it to a fibrous condition.
These wastes are now combined with a small percentage of pure wool and the result is a garment, which to all intents and purposes is "All Wool." Even cotton can be chemically treated to feel like wool, given a finish to look like wool and even labelled "All Wool."
Beware of the clothing who uses the "All Wool" inducement. Patronize the man who sells pure wool clothing, but if he does sell the other grade to the classes that want and demand it—he will be grateful and not resort to deception.

"Get back to bed, you old fool!" scolded Bowyer. "Didn't you do your own love-making?"

"If she wants have ye I will sell her," Leave the house and do your own love-making."

"If I do," answered Bowyer, "I'll do it. Do you mean that? Answer me, McDonald."

The factor sank back against the counter and stared at him with big, round eyes. His gray beard bristled with indignation. Bowyer smiled triumphantly.

"You're a fine love-maker!" he sneered. "Get out of the way!"

And inflamed almost to madness, he seized Molly in his arms and pressed his lips to her cheek and throat again and again.

"I guess you're not so cool as you pretend," said Molly. "You women are all alike. After all, I never knew you were in a hurry to get married."

"But how much do you pretend to know?" said Bowyer. "You were a school teacher, weren't you?"

"I was a school teacher," said Molly. "But I know more about men than you do."

"I know you caught me this time," said Bowyer. "But I'll be a school teacher again."

"I'll be a school teacher again," said Molly. "But I'll be a school teacher again."

"I'll be a school teacher again," said Bowyer. "But I'll be a school teacher again."

"I'll be a school teacher again," said Molly. "But I'll be a school teacher again."

"I'll be a school teacher again," said Bowyer. "But I'll be a school teacher again."

"I'll be a school teacher again," said Molly. "But I'll be a school teacher again."

Miss McDonald. How many do you want?" He looked at her still more keenly.

"One?" Kitty said nothing, but there was the slightest nod of her head in answer.

"It's a shame, Mrs. Bostock, that you should have to lose all Joe's money in that ten-cent line," said Bowyer. He was quite at his ease now, feeling himself in his accustomed element of intrigue.

"Even if it could be built, it wouldn't pay. And if it did pay, I'd take it myself. I want it, anyway. Not that I'd hurt you, if I could help it. Mrs. Bostock, but I've got my interests to look out for."

"Well?" asked Kitty, breathing quickly. "By the end of the year your shares will be worth nothing. You'll be ruined. It will be impossible to raise the capital to keep the line, either. It's a shame that Carruthers should waste his time and strength trying to carry out an impossible dream. If you could sell your shares at par when the note falls due, you could pull out, and you and he could make a sensible investment. He'd soon get over the disappointment. You could see to that."

He could not hide the flicker of a smile. Kitty saw it, and looked Bowyer the more. She knew he was playing the game.

"How long was he ill, then?" cried Molly.

"He was in bed a few days after you left. Of course, he couldn't resume his work till his arm had healed, but he wasn't what you could call ill. At least, he went to the directors' office every day to work on the plans."

Her blue eyes, tranquil as a child's, looked into Molly's gray ones. Presently Molly laughed.

"To think I didn't know!" she said. "I have been blind, haven't I? And I thought that it was you who had ceased to love me."

"I, Molly, dear? Well—it was pretty hard, coming here with Will Carruthers and feeling you ought to know, and not daring to speak. But please don't take my word about the man you're engaged to. I feel like a match-maker. But I love you, dear, and I like Will, and I do feel he isn't blame. That's why I came to you. And I've no doubt he's honorable enough to say nothing at all, if you want to."

"Kitty?" Molly sprang to her feet, quivering with indignation.

"Kitty, dear, I don't know now that I've done right," she said. "I hope you won't come to have any feeling against me, dear. Only you didn't seem to understand well things. And what I'm saying hasn't anything to do with Mr. Bowyer, if you feel that you don't care for him."

"Once for that beast!" said Molly.

"Get back to bed, you old fool!" sneered Bowyer. "Didn't you do your own housework?"

"If she wins, have you a winner, son?" he asked. "I leave the house and do your work?"

"If I do," answered Bowyer. "I'll do it. D'you mean that? Answer me, McDonald!"

"The factor sank back against the counter and glared at him with his eyes. His great head brushed his hair. Bowyer smiled triumphantly.

"Speak for me, McDonald," he jeered. "Tell her why she'd better change her mind."

"The factor raised his head. 'Stolly, lass,' he whispered, 'it's a grand opportunity he's offering you. Have you no thought of that? It'll be a home for you in my old age, when I can't care for you.'"

Molly fixed her eyes in horror upon McDonald. But Bowyer strode between them.

"You're a fine love-maker!" he sneered. "Get out of the way!"

And, I should almost to madness, he seized Stolly in his arms and pressed his lips to her cheek and throat again and again.

"I guess you're not as coy as you pretend, Stolly," he cried. "You women are all alike, after all. I never knew one yet that wasn't in a hurry to get hitched up, however much she pretended to dislike it."

The opening of the door behind him made him start. Kitty stood there, and it was quite clear that she had been a spectator of the scene. With a strain she saw Molly break from Bowyer's grasp and run into her room. She slipped her hand against the door and closed behind it, sobbing with terror and anger. The factor leaned against the counter, a look of dull apathy on his face. Bowyer turned sheepishly to Kitty.

"Well, I guess you caught me this time, Mrs. Bostock," he said. "But, being a woman, you'll understand."

Kitty's disgust for Bowyer held her silent. She made the slightest gesture of her head to him and went out of the store. Bowyer followed her.

"What does it mean?" asked Kitty.

"It means that I want Molly McDonald, and I've never wanted any man or woman yet that I didn't get," said Bowyer. "Make the most of it!" he blustered. "I've no more right as Carruthers, haven't I?"

"No," said Kitty.

"Why haven't I?"

"Mr. Carruthers was first. They are engaged."

"What's to stop her breaking it?"

"His situation," answered Bowyer. "A free judge, noticed that Kitty's voice was unnatural; she seemed laboring under some suppressed emotion. He looked quickly into her eyes and saw that she had been crying. And then he knew."

A slow smile spread over his face. Kitty Bostock had not made Big Muskeg her home so long out of devotion to the memory of Joe.

With a deliberated impulse Bowyer set out his hand and took hers.

"I want two things, Mrs. Bostock," he said. "Molly McDonald, and the Messiah. How many do you want?" He looked at her still more keenly. "One?"

Kitty said nothing, but there was the slightest nod of her head in answer.

"It's a shame, Mrs. Bostock, that you should have to lose all Joe's money in that ten-cent tug," said Bowyer. He was quite at his wits now, feeling himself in his accustomed element of intrigue. "Even if it could be built, it wouldn't pay. And if it did pay I'd take it myself. I want it, anyway. Not that I'd hurt you, if I could help it. Men, Bostock, but I've got my interests to look out for."

"What?" asked Kitty, breathing quickly.

"By the end of the year your shares will be worth nothing. You'll be ruined. It will be impossible to raise the capital to keep the line, either. It's a shame that Carruthers should waste his time and strength trying to carry out an impossible dream. If you could sell your shares at par when the note falls due, you could pull out, and you and he could make a sensible investment. He'd soon get over the disappointment. You could see to that."

He could not hide the flicker of a smile. Kitty saw it, and looked Bowyer the more. She knew he was playing.

"He seems very fond of you," suggested Kitty.

"Do you call that for fondness? I hate him. I hate the sight of him."

Kitty stroked her cheek softly. "You haven't met very many men, dear. Love doesn't amount to very much. And it doesn't last very long. I was quite happy with Joe, after the first month or two."

Molly looked at her to wonder. "Why, I thought you and Joe loved each other," she exclaimed.

"I admired Joe and respected him. And then, there was that dreadful specter of poverty with him. Joe was a man like Will Carruthers, he'd keep his word, no matter at what cost."

Molly sprang to her feet. "What are you hinting at?" she cried hysterically. "What word is Will keeping? Do you mean his promise to me?"

"Kitty drew her down beside her. 'Can't you see, Molly, dear—Joe—Joe knows how I hate hurting you, but I'm thinking of your happiness as well as Will's—can't you see that it was only a passing episode to him, this engagement?'"

Molly sat perfectly still, fixing her eyes on Kitty's face.

"If he had meant it, wouldn't he have written often from Glasgow?"

"How long was he in, then?" cried Molly.

"He was in here a few days after you left. Of course, he couldn't resume his work till his arm had healed, but he wasn't what you could call ill. At least, he went to the directors' office every day to work on the plan."

Her blue eyes, transfixed as a child's, looked into Molly's gray ones. Presently Molly laughed.

"To think I didn't know!" she said. "I have been blind, haven't I? And I thought that it was you who had ceased to love me."

"I, Molly, dear? Well—it was pretty hard, coming here with Will Carruthers and feeling you ought to know, and not daring to speak. But please don't take my word about the man you're engaged to. I feel like a mischief-maker. But I love you, dear, and I like Will, and I do feel he isn't to blame. That's why I came to you. And I've no doubt he's honorable enough to say nothing at all if you want to."

"Kitty!" Molly sprang to her feet, quivering with indignation.

Kitty rose. "I don't know now that I've done right," she said. "I hope you won't come to have any feeling against me, dear. Only you didn't seem to understand—well, things. And what I'm saying hasn't anything to do with Mr. Bowyer, if you feel that you don't care for him."

"Care for that beast?" said Molly.

Kitty drew her down beside her, fixing on her hopes, and yet the sudden vision made her heart beat furiously.

"I'm going to marry Molly," he concluded. "I swear that I possess the power to make her my wife. But I want the line in return. I want to see some of Joe's papers. They're robes, and you can let me see them without doing wrong, and you'll be helping Carruthers indirectly. They're in his safe. You know the combination."

"I'll marry her this fall. You can trust me, Mrs. Bostock, because you oversaw just how I feel about her."

Kitty tapped softly at the door of Molly's room. "It's gone, dear," she whispered. "Let me come in to you."

The bedstead was dragged back. Molly stood before her, white-faced and tense. Kitty put her arm round her and sat down on the bed beside her.

"Joe Bowyer's a beast, Molly," she said. "But most men are. If you give them the least bit of encouragement—"

"I never encouraged him!" cried Molly, sobbing violently. "I've always hated the sight of him. He has some power over father."

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

"THE BEAUTIFUL LIAR," the leading attraction today at this theatre, is a First National picture. Those who like to take a peep at the doings of the "Four Hundred" at play in one of the fashionable society summer resorts of America will find unique employment in seeing "The Beautiful Liar." Katherine MacDonald's latest starring vehicle, directed by Wallace Worster from the adaptation by Ruth Wightman of George Marion's "Penelope."

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week Anita Stewart will be seen in "The Invisible Fear."

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE BEARCAT," the feature picture today and tonight, presents Hoot Gibson in the stellar role. Those who have seen this smiling hero's most recent pictures will find much to enjoy in his newest watch in a whirlwind story of the Old West. Gibson portrays the type of role which has won him fame—justly, many will admit. The story concerns a young man who steps over the Mexican border to rid himself of a slight unpleasantness resulting from an episode in which his six-shooter figured prominently.

THE ORPHANUM.

"THE LITTLE MINSTER," a Paramount picture, featuring Betty Compson, is the principal attraction today and tonight at this theatre. This capable young star is charming as Lady Babbie and she brought to the role the gypsy-like character which it demands. All who have read the novel by James M. Barrie, or seen the play in which Maude Adams scored so decisively several years ago, will be delighted with this picture.

of schools of Upper 13 years (senior) and successor of the board of education, might be one of the three candidates nominated on the Republican ticket for Representative in the General Assembly. Mr. Byrne is endorsed by the Erie County Law Enforcement Association as the right man to lead the fight for strict law enforcement. He has been endorsed by labor as one who will stand firmly for its just and equitable rights. As an educator he should receive the multiplied support of every teacher and school director in the county. All who believe in the American Creed should be at the primary on May 16th and cast their ballots for a candidate who is a real American. If the people neglect this duty they will invite the house of representatives to renege upon the promise made in the constitution to protect the rights of the citizen. It may require only an hour to insure success. The political machine men of the city is not for Mr. Byrne, for he is paid to get votes for the machine candidates. Anyone soliciting votes for Mr. Byrne does it voluntarily and for clean politics. He is not deceived.

Black and Navy—in the well-received Tuxedo styles—the thing that mothers long for on the porch when evenings are cool. These are beautifully made. —Second Floor

A Stamped Lunch Cloth $1.65

The design is very distinctive—all the more so because it is to be embroidered in colors. It's a gift that will last a lifetime. Napkins to match are 4 for 40¢. —Second Floor.

New Handbags are $2 Up

And here are all the latest materials and shapes to choose from—hand tooled leather, moire silk, patent leather, etc. The bags have beautiful appointments and linings. And they come in many different shades. —Main Floor

Bucilla Shopping Bags $1.50 to $2.50

Something new and unusual—bags of colored straw to which mother adds clever floral wool embroideries. They're useful in many ways. —Second Floor

Perfumes $2.50

A dainty bottle of Djer Kiss or of Plance for her dressing table! There's a gift to conjure with! Bottles of Toilet Water are 50c to $4.50. —Main Floor

Beautiful Silk Hose $4.75 Pr.

The pair we have in mind for Mothers' Day is of pure dye silk with a distinctive lace clock woven into them. Easy to wash as a glove and really beautiful! Plain black silk hose are $3.50 pair. —Main Floor

NEXT SUNDAY the whole country will join hearts in celebrating Mothers' Day. Not with idle oratory or vain bombast but by remembering mothers with some little gift that will bring joy to their hearts.

And these Mothers' Day gifts must do two things—they must express, in some measure, the boundless love we all bear our mothers. They must be something that will last that they may express this love not for one day but many.

Gifts for the living—flowers for those who have gone—is the Mothers' Day motto.

Store News today carries a few suggestions for Mothers' Day gifts—all of them appropriate, many of them inexpensive.

It's Mother's Turn to Get Dressed Up!

Mother's turn generally comes last—after all the children have been outfitted for Spring and Summer. And no matter how economical she feels she must be she can well afford to buy the new clothes she needs now. For modes intended just for her have been gathered together into groups at these new low prices—

$21.50, $24.50, $29.50, $34.50, $39.50, $44.50, $74.00

Included are the clever new Tweed Suits that are so appropriate for a mother who wants to stay young in appearance. Beautiful wraps for afternoon wear—and for cool summer evenings. Every garment that a mother will need to keep abreast of the times. —Second Floor

A Very Clever Manicure Set $12

It looks like a picture frame, as it sits on one's dresser—but you open it up and lo and behold have a complete set of manicuring implements ready for use. In Pyralin, Du Barry pattern $12. —Main Floor

Pretty Handmade Waists Are $3.95

Beautiful waists in fine sheer voile, trimmed with real Irish lace are $8.95 to $10.75. Other handmade waists, less elaborate, are priced as low as $3.95. Blouses that reflect every modern trend of fashion are $5.95 up. —Second Floor

Gay New Umbrellas Are $10 Up

Umbrellas, these days, do more than keep off rain—they manage to be charming and to add verve to any costume. One comes in navy silk, with two tone handle and leather carrying thong at $15. Others range $10 to $16.50. —Main Floor

Buy Materials For a Dress!

Where's the thought that will delight her more than this? Enough of one of the new modish silks for her to fashion a dress after her own ideas—just as youthful or just as reserved as her taste will dictate.

Satin Canton $8.75 Yd.—A beautiful double faced material that can be used both for the body of a dress and for the trimmings (she'll appreciate that economy!) Comes in black, navy and brown.

Krepe Knit $8.50 Yd.—The rich material particularly becoming to the woman of generous proportions—and therefore likely to be a favorite with mothers. In all new Spring shades and in black and navy. —Main Floor

Mothers Day Gloves $1.50 to $3.50

Two favored styles are the 12 and 16 button mosquitoes that come in new Spring colors. You wear them with short sleeved frocks. Shades are—white, pongee, silver, nude and blue. All have the new tucked cuffs. —Main Floor

Bedspreads $5

Here is something for the home—with a distinct appeal to mothers. These spreads measure 72x36 and come in exceptionally firm and even weaves. At $5. —Second Floor

One Of These Edison Recreations—

No. 50959—"Swing," waltz piano solo, and "Who," fox trot piano solo by H. W. Lange.

No. 50960—"Memories of the South," medley fox trot by E. L. Stevens and "Nola," fox trot by Vincent Lopez orchestra.
